

COURIER-POST

Wednesday, November 21, 2007
News By The Community

Photo provided

Rocco Fiorentino, 11, of Voorhees recently entertained nearly 100 residents at the Lions Gate retirement community. Above, Rocco (center), who is blind, entertained by singing and playing the piano. He is joined by Wilma Messler (left), program director at Lions Gate, and Ellen Podolsky (right), program director of Bernard Dubin House, which plans to have Rocco perform in the near future.

Voorhees' Rocco sings for Lions Gate seniors

By LIONS GATE,
Voorhees

It was a Grand Night for Singing at Lions Gate, the new continuing care retirement community in Voorhees, when Rocco Fiorentino, 11, a Voorhees neighbor sang to nearly 100 residents.

Rocco, who is a blind educator and jazz singer/pianist, entertained by singing and playing piano for the seniors at Lions Gate. From the old favorite "Satin Doll" to "Fly Me to the Moon" and "All of Me," Rocco not only entertained, he also shared insight into how he plays music without vision.

For more information about Lions Gate, visit www.lionsgateccrc.com. For more information about Rocco, who is also being honored with the Great Friend to Kids Award, Young Achiever Division, from Please Touch Museum this month, visit www.musicbyrocco.com.