

The Philadelphia Inquirer

SUNDAY

JULY 15, 2007

In tune

Voorhees' Rocco Fiorentino, 10, won cheers Monday night at the NYC jazz club Birdland, when he sang at Jim Caruso's "Cast Party" accompanied by pianist Billy Stritch. Rocco, who is blind (and may be the youngest to croon at Caruso's star-studded cabaret nights), sang "All of Me" followed by "Fly Me to the Moon." Caruso's e-mail follow-up to friends and fans read: "Rocco sings like a bird, has perfect pitch, plays piano and drums ... and has been blind since birth. You can't know how he captivated the crowd at Birdland. He made a very entertaining night extra-special, and we can't thank him enough." Rocco

Michael Klein
INQlings

also is spokesman for the nonprofit Little Rock Foundation, which supports other blind or visually impaired kids.